The magistral and elite conference represents a major step forward in the fight against transnational and domestica organized crime and signifies the recognition of members and partners of the U.S MCC around the Americas of the seriousness of the problems posed by it, as well as the need to foster and enhance close international cooperation in order to tackle those problems.

The magistral security conference will be attended by more than 100 high-profile and senior decision-makers as well as thought-leaders from around the region, including Mayors, Chiefs of Police, leading personalities of international and non-governmental organizations, high-ranking representatives in the industry and the civil society to engage in an intensive debate during the 2 days of the magistral activity.

"Our main goal of the Summit's success will not be possible without extensive collaboration across foreign actors, members and partners in the United States," said Doug Mayorga, CEO of the U.S Minority Chamber of Commerce, " and our goal is to look at current topics dictated by public officials and top executives of the security industry focusing on Prevent but looking at how threats have developed during the lockdown periods and what as an industry we need to do collectively to help counter them".

About the U.S MCC: Founded in September 2000 and Headquarters in Washington DC, with global centers in in Los Angeles, Miami and Puerto Rico, is preparing a security conference in order to reach main compromise from actors in the international security sector to build public-private partnership- coalitions – not just across borders but also across sectors that include civil society and U.S private enterprise to be localized in affected communities.
